

Programme on Business Life Skills
(FINISHING SCHOOL PROGRAMME)

Programme:

Employability of Engineering graduates in the IT & ITES sector has been a major problem faced by academia and industry for more than a decade. There are several policy initiatives and academic interventions to improve the level of employability of graduates.

It has been identified that Employability skills are diverse in nature but are integrated. The skills sets broadly include- Technical skills and Soft skills. An integrated approach is required to develop these skills to make the graduates employable by the IT & ITES industry.

In a major bi-national initiative, National Institute of Technology, Trichy (NIT-Trichy) is implementing a project funded by the UK-India Education Research Initiative (UKIERI) with the primary objective of improving employability of Engineering Graduates in the IT & ITES industry. The project titled-“Preparing Graduates for Business Life”, is executed jointly with Brunel Business School, Brunel University, London, UK. Uxbridge College, UK, a further education institution is the other UK partner in the project. The best practices of “Business Life” programme of Brunel Business School has will be incorporated in the programme.

As part of the project, it is proposed conduct a 2-week programme Business Life Skills development Programme (Finishing School) during November 26-December 08, 2012.
